PITTSBURGH CAZETTE

It is just as easy to be in the best as to be in the poorest medium. The Gazette is the BEST. Advertisers will tell you so. It carries more foreign and local advertising than any of its morning contemporaries. It has carried more for a long time; and the present volume is much in excess of that of any of its competitors.

Why is this so? Well, there are many reasons, but the most potent is that the readers prefer the Gazette, and whereever the readers go, the advertisers follow.

OVER 1,000 CIRCULATION.

A COMPLETE LIST, AS GIVEN IN PART TWO OF THE AMERICAN NEWSPAPER DIRECTORY FOR DECEMBER, 1901.

There are at the present time 21,844 periodicals, of all sorts, published in the United States and Canada. Of the total number 5,735 have average outputs exceeding 1,000 copies each issue. Of the 5,735 papers here catalogued 1,794 have circulation ratings in actual figures and 3,941 have circulation ratings by letter, explained by a leve *

Letter ratings are given only to those publications that refuse or neglect to furnish circulation statements to the American Newspaper Directorv. A reward of one hundred dollars will be paid by the publishers of PRINTERS' INK for each and every instance where it shall be shown that a newspaper catalogued in this list furnished a truthful statement of its issues for a year, calculating therefrom the average issue, the statement being duly signed and dated, and failed to receive in the Directory the exact cir-culation rating claimed. A reward of a copy of the latest issue of the Newspaper Directory or a year's subscription for PRINTERS' INK, at the option of the receiver, will be given for any paper that shall be shown to be entitled to a higher letter rating than it receives in this catalogue.

"A man is best known by his neighbors," and it is equally true that a newspaper is best known by the people of the city in which it is published.

The Milwaukee EVEN-ING WISCONSIN may be pardoned for being proud of the fact that it is used by all advertisers in the city of Milwaukee who do any general advertising at all.

This is the estimate of the newspaper by the business community of its own city, and it can be said of very few newspapers in any city.

American Newspaper Directory

ESTABLISHED 1869.

This work is the source of information on Newspaper Statistics in the United States and Canada.

Advertisers, Advertising Agents, Editors, Politicians and the Departments of the Government rely upon its statements as the recognized authority.

It gives a brief description of each place in which newspapers are published, population, railroads, local industries, name and location of county, etc., etc.

It gives the names of all Newspapers and other Periodicals.

It gives the Politics, Religion, Class, Nationality, etc.

It gives the Frequency of Issue.

It gives the Editor's name.

It gives the Publisher's name.

It gives the Size of the Paper.

It gives the Subscription Price.

It gives the Date of Establishment.

It gives the Circulation—present, as well as for a series of years past, thus enabling an advertiser to determine the probable future.

It gives a separate list of all papers rated in the body of the book with a circulation of over one thousand.

It gives a separate list of all newspapers issued on Sunday with a circulation of over one thousand.

It gives a list of all Class Publications (Religious, Agricultural, Medical, Trade, in Foreign Languages, etc.), and a complete index to each class.

It gives a list of new newspapers established or reported during the year preceding.

It contains maps of each State, showing towns in which there are newspapers with more than 1,000 circulation.

It also contains other valuable tabulations and classifications.

The price of the AMERICAN NEWSPAPER DIRECTORY is Five Dollars-net cash, all charges prepaid.

As the most important portion of the information supplied by a mercantile agency consists of a report of the financial strength of the person about whom information is asked, so is the circulation of a newspaper generally considered the point upon which information will be of most value to the advertiser. The greatest possible care is taken to make the DIRECTORY reports correct. Every publisher is applied to systematically. All information is taken in a form which excludes any but definite statements; while every effort is made to protect honest publishers against such as would resort to disingenuous reports to gain an unfair advantage.

FOR BEGINNERS.

Don't engage in the mail order business unless you intend to devote the proper amount of time and thought to it. In order to succeed you will have to always be ready to fill orders at any time in order that your customers may not be disappointed. Then there are the numberless little details of advertising, ordering stock, answering inquiries, etc., all of which take time and work. The mail order business is no place for drones, and those who go into it thinking it an "easy snap" where they have only to do a little advertising, and take money easily had better stick to their present job. In no business is prompt, honest activity in filling orders and attending to general details more important than in the mail order business.—White's Sayings.

FAMILIARITY-CONTEMPT.

Bargain days should not crowd each other too closely. A rapid succession decreases the amount of force and often leads the buyer into thinking that the whole thing is a bluff. A bargain day once a month would prove more beneficial, from a financial standpoint, than a bargain day once a week; possibly twice a month would not be too often to have special sales.—Ad Sense.

Your own will come to you, if you hold the thought firmly—and hustle!— The Philistine.

BOOK ADS IN THE "TIMES" RE-VIEW.

Many readers must have been impressed by the methods of display used by publishers in their advertisements, The type was often an inch in length and a quarter of an inch wide—solid black masses of ink. Even the smaller type was broad-faced. One does not need to go far back to recall a time when these methods were unknown to publishing houses. It was the belief of publishers that readers interested in books preferred sober and unobtrusive type, as in better accord with the dignity and refinement of bookselling.

In the same issue of this paper appeared an advertisement that recalled the older methods. It came from Franklin Square. Here was no display —a simple design, mainly in small light-faced type, with simple borders, and yet was there any advertisement in that issue, containing many columns, that was more effective? How well it accorded with its surroundings. Typo-How well it dings. Typographically it merely emphasized the effect produced by the type in the reading matter, where the Jensen hair-spaced head lines were only a degree less pronounced than the type in the advertisement.

practices did not give better recogni-tion of the tastes of literary people than do recent methods of pronounced dis-play. Readers of books should not be repelled by typographical violence, but attracted by an absence of it. We are quite sure they would like to see the old methods come back once more.—New York Times.

A CARD TO HANG IN KITCHENS.

A Philadelphia druggist has had printed on heavy cardboard a table showing the length of time required for cooking the principal articles of food, tables of domestic measurement, rules fables of domestic measurement, rules for testing the oven, baking, etc., and a list of the various cuts of meat with their usual weight and best way of cooking—in fact, a complete encyclopedia of domestic information; and between these tables he has a list of the tween these tables he has a list of the various spices and condiments he keeps, with quotations of prices in small amounts and quantity. The advertisement is finished up with brief notes of the times of mail collection in his neighborhood, addresses of doctors. ment is human the times of mail collection in his neighborhood, addresses of doctors, telephone numbers, street car service, and a list of the conveniences at the military in his store. The g matter, where the Jensen hair-aced head lines were only a degree disposal of the conveniences at the spronounced than the type in the lyertisement. It may well be questioned if the older

AN IDEAL SALESMAN.

By using a typewritten letter so that each will see that he has been considered worthy of a careful reply, the returns will be increased. When Uncle Sam solicits he asks but a small fee for each call he makes. He isn't delayed by sickness, he never makes mistakes in quoting terms, and he always does exactly as you say about extending credits. He is always at your beck and call. He never strikes you for a raise, each credits. He is always at your beck and call. He never strikes you for a raise, if he happens to place two or three big if he happens to place two or three big orders for you. He plugs away at it just as long as you wish. Stops and starts when you say the word, and never "soldiers" on you, and doesn't ask you to sign a contract. He's the ideal salesman, for he pays his own way.—

Ad of Multigraph Letter Company, Chicago.

ART AS AN INVESTMENT.

ART AS AN INVESTMENT.
Advertising art as well as the art of advertising is advancing with rapid strides. Keen competition in most all the channels of trade is responsible. The period "where most any old thing in the way of advertising matter will do" is hopelessly past. Sharp eyes, alert brains, deft hands with pen, pencil, paint and press are being employed by the advertisers of to-day who are looking toward their advertising matter as an investment and finding it as such.

It deals with aerial navigation in all phases and is the most substantial recognition which that form of endeavor has yet received. The recent success of M. Santos-Dumont has had much to do with its establishment, and the first number contains a portrait of Prof. Langley, of the Smithsonian Institution. It would seem as though the new periodical ought to be a good advertising medium for gas companies.

THE Brown Book, of Boston, seems to get its share of good ideas. Just now it is organizing a Brown Book tour of Europe, to occupy thirty-five days and cost those of its subscribers who join $275 each. It is certain that such an offer will attract a reasonably large number of thoughtful persons and result in much prestige for the comparatively young publication. There is no doubt that the same scheme could be used by large stores or even by national advertisers, modifying it to in-clude points that can be reached at less cost. A Sapolio tour to Niagara Falls may sound somewhat startling, but it is not entirely impracticable.

THE January number of the Sapolio Times is called the "red letter edition," and contains practically all of the news of Spotless Town. Among other things one learns that the health department of the famous municipality has taken up Hand Sapolio, that the topographical society is working on a new map of the town and its environs, and that the oldest inhabitant is to deliver a lecture upat home."

It is well to clip all stray matter that concerns your especial line and file it away for future use. When the business is one upon which much useful matter is constantly being published, as shoes, foods, clothing and the like, the service of a clipping bureau will furnish many columns of material for advertising literature. The Sunday edition of the New York Sun is notable for curious information about well-known and out-of-the-way commodities, as are the English magazines. The history and curious lore of all commodities are being used to good advantage in many lines of publicity.

Professor Arlo Bates has a decent admiration for the literary quality of the average business man's letters. "Letter writing," he says, "is held to be a lost art in these days, the intercommunication of ideas being now accomplished by methods less laborious, and, as a rule, less personal. In accordance with the original offer, a coupon entitling the holder to a paid-in-advance subscription to PRINTERS' INK, good for one year from date of presentation, was sent to Mr. Reed when the marked copy of the paper was received. Two additional coupons, one to Mr. Reed and one to the advertising manager of the Noontide, were sent in accordance with the terms of the competition when a selection of the best ad for the third week had been made.

Mr. Reed's advertisement will now be placed on file, and it will have further consideration later on, as specifically provided in the regulations which govern the con-

Each of the fifteen unsuccessful competitors for the honors of the third week received a coupon good for one year's subscription to Printers' Ink, as a partial consideration for their efforts in accordance with the terms of the contest.

Dull seasons come to all stores—seasons when more energy and push and good, hard work is required to make sales and keep up the business. Here is where the trained and permanent clerk shows his value.

Then, another thing, a merchant can put his confidence in the doings of a good man, and sleep easy nights. He need not keep his eye continually on the conduct of such a clerk. He need not feel that the customer is being handled improperly. He may rest assured the the sale will be made if honhandled improperly. He may rest as-sured the the sale will be made if honest and capable salesmanship can make it at all.

Every retailer wants to feel that if a customer slips away from his clerk he would slip away from any clerk, or would slip away from ar himself.—Good Advertising.

The man who knows all about everything is not in demand.

What are needed are persons who are trained to do one thing—and do it better than any one else.

No one man knows all about advertising.

But many men are learning a great deal about it.

There is one periodical that has done more for advertising than any other in the country.

It is PRINTERS' INK, published at 10 Spruce street, New York City.

The United States leads the world in the development of advertising.

PRINTERS' INK, the pioneer of the advertising field, has made it what it is.

Every young business man should read PRINTERS'

It is at once inspiration and knowledge.

Almost any number contains ideas worth the cost for one year.

Five Dollars the year is a small sum to invest in the best authority on advertising extant.

Ten Cents will bring a sample copy that should get an order for a year.

Better invest at once and get all the good things now being printed.

A cash inclosure sent to PRINTERS' INK, No. 10 Spruce street, New York, is all that is necessary.

KEEPING POSTED.

It is true in every department of business, and especially so in advertising, that the most successful men are those who avail themselves of the ideas and experience of others. It is an insignificant theory to hold steadfastly to selfsufficiency and with an iron will ignore the well-meant and valuable suggestions of others. that well-meant idea or suggestion may be a greater incentive to your business, if adopted, than would spring to your mind in a lifetime. The man with unconceited principles knows that it is no impossibility for a bright idea or valuable suggestion to come from sources seemingly unpromising, and no man with an eye to business will fail to overlook any chances.

Making use of bright ideas. valuable suggestions and other practicable trade winners. notable instances why some businesses soon reach a high degree of public favor. Some of the most progressive men of to-day ascribe their success largely, though before going into business for themselves, to a careful study of the causes that brought about the success or failure of others; and coupled with their own sound understanding and good judgment, they are rising in a sphere peculiarly adapted to their nature and aspirations. While the individual of opposite inclination ascribes his failure to lack of opportunity, it is nothing less than lack of system, or utter disregard or misapplication of those principles that are powerful factors in securing public patronage.

In these days of push, prosperity, activity, failure need not come through lack of opportunity, for every life is full of opportunities and opportunity, grasped at the opportune moment, is often the touchstone to success.

Keep posted, for some little phrases have a big meaning. Enjoy the sunny side of life, and conduct your business in such a model way that it will refute any charge made against your lack of knowledge or attention to your calling.

ADVERTISING AND NESS CHARACTER.

mere sense of the words. We feel the man behind it, and get an impression of the business character that the advertising represents. This fact is one that the great captains of industry and business fully appreciate. They try to employ men whose writing and judgment of the value of the right thing, said in the right way, may be depended upon. There are very few men of this type available, for the qualifications call for much more than a clever facility of expression. The best of them have the insight and perception of business in the abstract that belong to a certain kind of genius. The style of the advertising we do is as obvious in its impression as the style in the writing of a novel or an essay. The essayist indeed has much of the advertising writer's point of view, and the really thoroughly well written advertising of our day is distinctly literary in its feeling. The difference between the good essay and the bad is the same as that between the good and bad advertisement. One is wordy, specious, scarce in ideas and unconvincing, the other full of merit, direct and conclusive. The easy writing sort of thing that abounds in big talk and little said is going out of favor. We are acquiring an education in the art of advertising. As in all the arts, it is not in its most obvious and insistent aspects that we find the most satisfaction. Something must be left to the observer and the reader. In the artistic advertisement we are never at a loss to discern the implied quality of a business. It creates an atmosphere, establishes unconsciously a feeling of confidence or the re-

The very insistence of this style of advertising would seem to carry with it a certain suggestion of a forcing process. It is certainly a very glaring expression of what our foreign critics look upon as Yankee brag, the manifestation of a national insincerity and want of proportion in the arts as in everything else. There is a mean line certainly, quite away from the "shrinking violet" attitude, and yet within the bounds of the dignity and respect that would seem to go with the selling of books as "goods." It is a curious anomaly, this breaking loose of the publishers. They are certainly not printing books for the higher education of the people or for anything else than to do themselves the most good. Scare heads and numbers do not work all the time, though; the eye gets tired of them and the mind fails to get a thrill when the news is all alike. The style of our advertising is improving, nevertheless. In many of the booklets recently published the work shows an appreciation of the need for more careful writing. There is no reason why a great frankly business article ing the story of the growth of some great enterprise, should not have the consideration given to the same material in the magazines. The futility of much business writing is chiefly due to the lack of sincerity and a want of the literary training that infuses the commonplace of fact with imagination and a sense of the true value of all decisive human achievement. The human element is the thing that counts in all writing and gives it endurance. there is no sentiment in business Never in the history of the pub- is the remark of the man who lishing business has there been lacks perception. ### OUR POSTOFFICE.

A REWARD OFFERED FOR A DEFENSE OF IT.

On the two pages that follow may be seen reproductions of advertisements of the Ladies' Home Journal of Philadelphia. The first appeared in the December issue, the second in that for January. People with good eyes may decipher the letter press of the two ads. Anybody can do it by using a magnifying glass, such as ought to be in every office where PRINT-ERS' INK is read: that is to say, in the place of business of every upto-date business man.

Directly after the December edition of the Ladies' Home Journal was out, what purported to be a supplement was sent around, containing the following words framed with inverted rule:

SUPPLEMENT TO THE LADIES' HOME JOURNAL FOR DECEMBER, 1901.

To the readers of the Journal:
Since the December issue of the magazine was printed, the editors have discovered that the offer of prizes made on page 31 comes within the prohibition of the postal laws. It is too late now to print a new magazine, or even to eliminate this page, but it should be distinctly understood that the offer is absolutely withdrawn.

In the January Ladies' Home Journal the matter of these puzzles is referred to as follows:

When we inserted "The Journal's Amusing Puzzles" in the December number we did so in the best of faith after first seeking what we believed to be and accepted as authoritative ad-vice. Upon the publication of the isvice. Upon the publication of the issue, however, we received official notice from the postoffice department at Washfrom the postoffice department at Washington that the matter published was in violation of the United States lottery law, which prohibits the publication in any periodical, or the distribution through the United States mails, of any printed matter in which the element of chance forms a part. The matter was taken un immediately with the authorities at Washington and gone over in detail. But no other construction of the law was possible.

Naturally, the regret of this company can easily be understood to be great at this unfortunate interruption of a "feature" which was entered into with such entire good faith.

The new puzzles in this issue are all

All element of chance has been moved from this new series, and the idea has been officially passed upon and approved by the postoffice department at Washington.

Note the last sentence. idea has been officially passed upon at Washington. So also the first sentence quoted. It is to the effect that the puzzle offer was put out in the best of faith after first seeking what was believed to be authoritative advice. It was the advice of the postmaster of Philadelphia, which was found so misleading.

A few weeks ago Printers' INK made public a correspondence with the New York postoffice and the postoffice department at Washington, showing that the first named was not competent to say what would be the department's ruling upon a question of sample copies, and that it took the third assistant postmaster-general eight days to interpret his own ruling on the subject.

PRINTERS' INK will give a free subscription for a year (price five dollars) to every one who will give a really good reason why the postoffice department finds it advisable to be so secret about its rulings concerning the carriage of second class matter that postmasters of towns of the size of New York, Philadelphia and Atlanta are not competent to say what will be the department's ruling upon an everyday question, and are on that account expected to hold up a publisher until some (said to be) overworked official at the capital of the nation finds time to make up his mind how he will decide to-day the indentical question which the same official decided last month, last week and yester-

DRIVE IT HOME.

Some men think that by making a great stir for a little time they gain a permanent advantage. This is far from permanent. How quickly a tning is gotten if it is not so continuously advertised! It is said the public have bad memories, but perhaps they try and too much into them. One event usurps another in importance, and the panorama of daily incidents diverts the mind from ceaseless concentration on one particular thing. Day by day the happenings increase in number and im-portance, and the public mind is ever being conducted to a new channel of thought and consideration. The necessity for continuous advertising was never more pronounced than at the present time. A passing flash causes but a moment's reflection. Permanent drive-it-home advertising makes an impression that lasts.—The Travelling Partner.

ILLUSTRATIONS.

It is pretty generally conceded that illustrations are essential to the business of advertising. illustration when used in accordance with the meaning of the word conveys an idea to the mind of the prospective purchaser much quicker than would a simple type argument. But the trouble with much of our illustrated advertising of the present time is that it does not illustrate.

The meaning of the word "illustrate" is to make plain-to simplify, and unless the illustration embodies this meaning, it would be far better for the advertiser to depend altogether on plain type.

The main purpose of the illustration is to convince the reader that the article offered possesses merit. This is the main purpose. However, there are advertisers who think that pictures are used solely to attract attention, and believing this, they write their copy to fit the picture, whereas the picture should always be made to il-lustrate the copy. The copy is of primary importance. The picture is always secondary.

The best illustration is a picture of the article advertised. A man may be in need of a pair of shoes, and yet, when he picks up his paper to read the news, it's quite probable that he does not think of shoes at all. However, in reading the paper his attention is attracted by the picture of a shoe, which in- value considered. stantly brings to his mind the fact The contest for this honor is that he is in need of choes, and as now open, and the claims and asa consequence he reads the ad and perhaps buys.

The text of the ad and the illustration should have a close connection. It's quite impossible to do full justice to one's advertising when the cut used bears no relation whatever to the text. illustration and the text should be very similar. The text should describe the article. The illustration should picture the description.

SEVENTH SUGAR BOWL

During the past four years PRINTERS' INK has made searching inquiries concerning the comparative merits of American newspapers of various sections and classes, and has given six awards, in each case a solid silver sugar bowl, made by Tiffany & Company. The details of the examinations were fully set forth while in progress, and the conclusions arrived at were engraved upon the souvenir.

The first award went to the Kansas City Star, the second to the Los Angeles Times, the third to the Philadelphia Record, the fourth to the Chicago News, the fifth to the Bangor Commercial, the sixth to the Iron Age.

A seventh award will be made within the next few months to the agricultural paper, weekly, semimonthly, monthly or however issued, that better serves its purpose than any other as an educator and counsellor for our agricultural population, and best serves as an economical medium for communicating with that through its advertising columns and on the fairest terms, price and

WITH ENGLISH ADVERTIS- therefore give a few details. The ERS.

By T. Russell.

The great event of 1902, for American advertisers in England, will undoubtedly be the American Exhibition, to be opened at the Crystal Palace in May—by the King and Queen, I hope. The Crystal Palace is the original building used for the first International Exhibition in 1851—a scheme to which the Prince Consort, husband of Queen Victoria, gave much time. That Exhibition was held in a vast building of glass and iron, erected in Hyde Park from the design of Sir Jo-seph Paxton, and rudely called by Mr. Ruskin an overgrown cucum-ber frame, though it is much more members of the American Society like a million-power conservatory. After the Exhibition of 1851, it was sold for scrap iron and glass, bought up by a syndicate, and reerected at Sydenham, the beautiful suburb of London, which it still disfigures. It is the finest building in the world for holding number of a railway which this planet suffers under-the London, Southeastern and Chatham Railway, which takes forty minutes to run an ordinary train, and nearly half an hour to run what it amusingly calls an express train, over the six or seven miles which separate it from the center of London. I mean that these are the schedule times for those trains, but they do not habitually rush along at that

The Exhibition looks like being a "go," and will be worthy of the sification of exhibits: attention of all American adveran advertising investment, and I Traction, Haulage, etc.;

A BOUQUET.

The following critical praise of the Little Schoolmaster is so clear a recognition of his present aims, and of his purpose in the world, that it is considered worth space:

"Since you threw away the long shears some months ago I have noted a steady improvement in PRINTERS' INK. From week to week there has been an increase of original matter, and It think that in your issue for December 18 you have fairly overcome the 'clipping habit' altogether. The subjects treated represent the very soul of applied, practical, living publicity.

"First comes criticism. In fact, the Little Schoolmaster's best attitude toward advertising is that of the critic in the wider meaning of the word. Were it not, he would be an indifferent pedagogue. Under this head I would range gogue. Under this head I would sauge such articles as are printed upon pages 6, 8, 10, 12, 24, 58 and 60. In each of these articles is set forth some phase of some particular branch of advertising that needs improvement. The first, ing that needs improvement, is in line upon 'Medical Advertising,' is in line with a good many that have been printed lately, and which are intended to furnish physicians, lawyers and other non-advertisers with the facts about advertising as it can be applied to their confessions or businesses. 'Call on ing that needs improvement. The first, upon 'Medical Advertising,' is in line professions or busineses. 'Call on George Robinson,' page 28, is the same kind of information for lawyers. It is very clear that, if advertising is to be extended to the old, conservative pro-fessions, it must be done by some such fessions, it must be used by some such first steps as these. I am glad to see that you have taken them up, and hope that you will be able to get vital views upon the question. In 'Advertising upon the question. In 'Advertising Municipal Securities' the Little Schoolmaster is in his element, laying finger upon a bit of stereotyped advertising that merely wastes space. 'Shall the Ad be Humorous?' touches another live issue ably. For my part, I have almade the saving grace of an ad-but, alas! when one fails to be really humorous, as so many do, he is as good as damned. The majority of young writ-ers, I think, look upon humor as some-thing easy of execution. They do not know that it is infinitely easier to write sublime speeches and orations—that humor is either inhorn, or the last grace given to a writer after time and experience and suffering have mellowed his point of view of life. The turning of the worm in 'Duties and Privileges of the Advertising Manager' ought to be tne Advertising Manager' ought to be a lesson to every advertiser who employs a man with a brain and then refuses to let him use it. 'Leaks' and 'The Mail Order Department' both contain stuff that, as you know, applies particularly to me. All of this matter is written pointedly, and cannot help but be stimulating. but be stimulating.

"Second, perhaps, come articles upon actual methods—interviews, etc. You seem to have left the interview out of this number, but you have given us so many pithy ones of late. But you have other ways of treating method, and they are eminently good. For example, you have lately taken a lot of pains with the young person who is learning to write (and the elderly person who thinks he has learned). You ought to recommend such books as Arlo Bates', for they are sane and helpful. I know that it is very difficult to get any real, practical help in learning to write—that oftentimes that man who writes best can tell least about it. I am also of the coinion that the correspondence from opinion that the correspondence from Philadelphia, Boston and England con-tains a deal of helpful matters upon method—reports of things that are being used in those places.

"Third (though I sometimes think they should be placed first of all), come your notes and editorial paragraphs. There are nine pages of the last in this number, touching upon many topics. Praise, dispraise, even ridicule, are di-rected toward quarters where they are needed; the humor and the lighter side needed; the humor and the lighter side of publicity are made to leaven the mass; small bits of technical advice are offered succinctly, and the whole department is alive with good things. I wonder if you know how many of these paragraphs are used all over the country each week—in editorial columns, as newspaper 'ears' and 'fillers,' for booklets, folders, ads, window cards, and like purposes. Hardly a week goes by in which I do not find some 'scheme' or idea that is just the thing I need, and I idea that is just the thing I need, and I can assure you that I think them of direct benefit to any one who is connected with advertising or publishing.

"The paper has lost none of its vigilance in the matter of circulations. I have always admired the ruthless fashion in which the Little Schoolmaster has attacked that bane of the advertisworld-the publisher who withholds or lies about his circulation. He has lost none of his sharpness in giving a thor-ough rating to the publisher who lacks one, and still attacks all circulation freebooters regardless of their commercial draught or financial armament. Up-on the other hand, he has ever shown a readiness to recognize merit and hon-esty, even though they were in streaks. Upon my desk just now there is a pos-tal from the Bookkeeper, quoting a tal from the Bookkeeper, quoting a kind thing that was said in a PRINTERS' INK interview a few weeks ago. Of course, Mr. Beach does not go out of his way to say that it was printed in an interview, but runs it as the editorial utterance of your paper. How many editors, with the Bookkeeper's circulation disparity in mind, would have held the blue pencil from such a fact in an interview? Then, the promptness with which Mr. Porter's London agency was questioned, and the impartial hearing that is given to him in this issue, as well as the coals of fire heaped issue, as well as the coals of fire heaped upon the head of the publisher of the American Machinist after his letter of some weeks ago, show conclusively that the Little Schoolmaster is not prone to malice. Is there any important publication in the United States that, whether at war or peace with him, does not re-ceive commendation and advertising at his hands?

"I like the disposition that you show of late to inquire into the higher mean-ing of publicity. There is a peculiar uplift to such articles as 'The Mechan-ism of Ideas.' They show the wider application of advertising, make a man feel prouder of being connected with it, and help him to forget the senseless prattle so prevalent just now about 'the taint of commercialism,' 'the material age,' and so on. I love the game of bus-iness, and think it every bit as manly, absorbing—yea, and dangerous—as the more romantic one of war. I have never met a man who used business or money. met a man who used business or money as tools who had not sanity and many other good qualities. And when I see what is being done in the world by such men, I deeply resent the chatter of superficial writers who fill newspapers and magazines with their snap-shot judgment, lack of knowledge and involuntary of seilers. untary confessions of failure to be not even passable writers, much less high privates in the armies of commerce.

"Your adwriting "Your new adwriting competition pleases me greatly, for it will bring out budding talent. The advertising world needs able men, for it is growing almost beyond bounds. There are plenty new competition needs able men, for it is growing almost beyond bounds. There are plenty of men who think they know how to advertise, but when an assistant is needed in an advertising department there is the very devil of a time to get a competent one. I know personally that the competition of some years ago helped many a youngster into the craft, and I have often wondered why you did not repeat the experiment. Your other features hold their own—reproduced ads and everything, even the department that, from time to time, prints Mr. Rowell's portraits. For that is he holding the reins of page 53, is it not? holding the reins of page 53, is it not?
And if I were to guess as to the other,

Charles Austin Bates?

"This letter has run into a sort of eulogy of the Little Schoolmaster, but I rely upon your good sense to stand praise. When a man likes a thing it is almost his duty to say so, bluntly. I like PRINTERS' INK, I have always liked it, and if it keeps on improving at its present rate, I shall like it for many years to come."

Editor of PRINTERS' INK:
My business manager has forwarded to me your favor of December 31, in which you call attention to the fact which you call attention to the fact that the Commoner is sent to some of the members of Congress, and inquire whether in my opinion such a privilege could be exercised by any other publication. I beg to say that the Commoner already had among its regular subscribers a number of the members of the House and Senate. When Congress opened last December, I had a list of these made and authorized the head of the subscription department to head of the subscription department to send the paper regularly during the session of Congress to all the Democratic and Fusion Senators and Congressmen, who were not already taking the paper. I do not know whether, according to the rules of the department, such ing to the rules of the department, such papers could be counted with the papers sent to regular subscribers, but we send out so few sample copies, compared with the number permitted, that it did not occur to me that it could be a violation of postal regulations. In order to obtain a ruling of the department on the question, I shall take the liberty of sending a copy of your letter to the third assistant postmaster-general, with a request for information, and shall publish his reply in the Commoner. Very truly yours,

THE VALUE OF SAMPLES.

One of the best things in connection with medical advertising is the giving away of free samples. This is a propoaway of free samples. This is a proposition that appeals to the majority, and regular sales are pretty sure to follow. While it is true that sampling is often done for poor articles, yet the very act of mailing a sufferer something for nothing establishes more or less confidence, and many will buy as soon as the trial package arrives, without wait-ing to test the medicine. This is es-pecially true where the advertiser makes in his circular letter a cut price for a very limited time, say two weeks date of notification

All live druggists will tell you that they would give more for enough free samples and circular matter to reach every house in town than for a three-inch ad in a local paper of say a thousand circulation.—Advertising Success.

BOSTON NOTES.

By Dean Bowman.

The dealers of the Hub who cater to the high class trade are active with booklets, brochures, and artistic circulars in an endeavor to share in the January dividends. The disbursements will be the largest in the history of the country. In Boston alone it is estimated that twenty-five million dollars will be paid to shareholders by the corporations, not mentioning the Government interest, which was to some extent paid in advance.

The Globe is figuring on the feasibility of putting in a line of pneumatic tubes connecting the different parts of the city and suburbs with the Globe office for the transmission of ads. The telephone is now used for the purpose, but while news items can be sent over the wire with some degree of accuracy a want ad sometimes reads rather "funny," even after being repeated by phone. When sent by tube the "copy" is already written and can be sent immediately to the linotype, and another advantage is that the amount may be transmitted along with the ad.

It is claimed the Journal has the largest cabinet of cuts in the country. Those used in the news department for features and in ads now number over 20,000. The practice of this paper is to save the stereotypes instead of the matrices, as most papers do. The Journal's system of numbering and arranging the engravings and the carefully compiled catalogue of proofs enable the cut keeper to put his hand on any picture wanted instantly.

Quite a delegation of advertisers from Boston will be in attendance at the coming convention of general advertisers to be held at Delmonico's in New York on January 29 and 30.

A clothier made a ten-strike last week by arranging with a minstrel troupe to wear in their street parade raglans from his stock. Instead of a banner calling attention to the fine looking coats the clothier had a half-dozen uniformed boys follow the band with a long muslin streamer with his ad on, reading: "Raglans like these for $10 at My Clothiers."

A big small-pox scare has been agitating the Hub, and the big department stores clubbed together and run daily in the newspapers a notice from the board of health certifying that there was no danger in people coming to the city to trade.

Much interest is manifested at the Press Club, in newspaper offices and among the advertisers in the forthcoming PRINTERS' INK contest, and many of the scribes are scratching their heads for a winning idea, and from the talk of "the boys" we should judge a mighty effort will be made this time to keep the capital prize from going out into the wild and woolly West.

A NUISANCE.

There is no excuse for a publisher who sends out copies of his paper stamped "marked copy" merely to induce the advertiser to look over every column. Some publishers haven't yet learned that advertisers take very little stock in the average paper sent in without solicitation.—Advertising Success.

ADVERTISING ELECTRICAL NOVELTIES.

During the past year Jas. H. Mason, 150 Nassau street, New York, has been advertising electrical novelties in magazines, mail order monthlies and some of the New York dailies in a way that makes his advertising story well worth going after. Electric batteries, fans, incandescent lights, small motors and other electrical apparatus by mail are his commodities, and he has been singularly happy in saying what he has to say in a few inches of space, saying it unmistakably, and saying it with an air of honesty that carries conviction to the reader. His ads have frequently been "catchy," but are more notable for plain sense and clearness.

His story is interesting from several standpoints. He has been an inventor of and dealer in electrical novelties since 1886, and has a knowledge of advertising that was not only acquired in the school of Dame Experience, but which cost him considerably more than that eminent schoolmistress' average rate of tuition. In 1887 he began advertising a dry battery, a galvanic battery and other specialties of his own invention, using religious and trade mediums. In three years he had built up a business so large that it was becoming unwieldly, when some considerate promoters who thought him overworked went to the trouble of organizing a com-pany to handle the trade he had created. Later they went to the pains of "freezing out" his ten per cent of stock, as well as himself, leaving him without his inventions and hampered by debts that he felt morally bound to pay. high price to pay for the knowl- such folks.

was the medium by which one could put his hand directly into its millions of pockets. So he set to work upon other inventions, and finally arrived at a point where he thought he could safely begin advertising again.

"I began this second campaign practically without a dollar," he said, "and ran into debt for my first space. I have always believed in honesty as a business policy, to say nothing of its moral virtues, and had preserved my credit and good name. But I decided that I would begin upon no false basis. I went to several magazines, particularly the Strand, which has been very kind to me, and told them what I wished to do and my circumstances. They gave me credit, saying that they would rather trust an honest man than a rich one.

"The start was modest, but I knew what I wanted to do, and was successful from the first. Advertising had paid before, and it paid again-will always pay if used rightly. In the past twelve months I have spent $8,000, and got on a secure business footing once more.

"My plan is somewhat out of the ordinary, I believe. In all my announcements I advertise my little booklet, Electrical Knowledge, for ten cents. This booklet is a simple treatise upon electricity, written by myself, describing methods of fitting homes with small lamps, fans, bells and motors at an inconsiderable outlay. "In my year of advertising I have used many mediums. The Argosy, Strand, Junior Munsey, Independent and Literary Digest have paid me well. The mail order journals have also paid, but I have learned some costly facts about them. The Brown Book, of Boston, for instance, has been one of my best mediums, bringing me 800 replies in a single month, but the 'lists' of cheaply gotten up mail order monthlies have proved worse than useless for my pur-pose. They lack mechanical and literary excellence-are printed on poor paper, filled with cheap pictures and made up with no knowledge of readers' tastes. They go to the waste basket, and their large circulations do not mean When they are well anything. gotten up they are good for my purpose, as I have proved by the Brown Book, but without these saving graces they fail to reach the classes who are interested in my goods. I asked him if his entire issue was printed upon paper as good as that of the sample, and he assured me that it was, but when we came to the test of putting it in writing he admitted that his sample was one of a 'limited advertisers' edition.' The negotiations closed then and there, of course.

The moment when the mails puts them into the addressee's hand is the decisive moment. But 100,000 ads in a magazine are permanent for a month at least. WHAT PUBLISHERS ASSERT.

STRONG PULLER.

VERTISING.

The December issue of the Yestern Editor, Omaha, Neb., contains the following: The "country editor" who carries an annual pass or a mileage book, "paid for in contemporaneous advertising," usually imagines that he is giving the railroad the bulk of its advertising. It is his opinthat the railroad company must use the papers along its line, and that it finds it cheaper to pay for the advertising in transportation than to pay for it in cash. So far as benefits to the advertiser are concerned advertising in the local papers along its line amounts to very little compared with the benefits derived from advertising in other ways and in other quarters. The people living upon a line of railroad or in the territory tributary thereto naturally use that line of railroad when they travel. Because of this the chief benefit derived by the road from the advertising in the local newspapers is during the excursion season when it is desired to make the public aware of a cheap rate.

It is no trick at all for a railroad to interest the people who live upon its line. The advertising manager of the road has but to make announcement of excursions to have the people in his road's territory talking about it and preparing to take advantage of the cheap rates offered. If that was all the work that devolved upon the advertising manager his salary would be exceedingly small. It is another matter when he undertakes to interest people who live on one side of the continent and want to take a trip to the other side thereof. They have their choice of a dozen or more different lines. Expense is not so much considered as comfort, speed, scenery, attendance, etc. Here is where the advertiser of an up-to-date railroad gets in his work and earns his salary.

How shall he proceed to get his road prominently before the minds of the travelling public? He has newspapers, the billboards, the theater programmes, posters, mag-

SCIENCE OF RAILROAD AD- other vehicles of information. He knows that what will catch one class of travellers will not be noticed by others. It follows, then. that the advertising manager must know his public as well as know his mediums. Almost any man can write some sort of an advertisement and secure its insertion in a newspaper or a magazine. But writing one that will attract the eye and at the same time appeal to the mind is something entirely different. And the advertising manager who has not made a study of advertising rates would probably be cinched for a few thousand dollars right at the start. In other words, Mr. Oldboy could get for $1,000 what Mr. Newman would pay $3,000 for. Again, Mr. Newman would probably advertise tourist sleepers in Harper's Weekly and Pullman sleepers in some penny dreadful that appeals only to callow youths and maids who wait on milady and her aristocratic husband.

No other branch of the advertising business has made development equal to the railroad branch. The best designed advertisements, the brightest "readers," the most artistic posters, the most striking billboards and the most stupen-dous labors in the literary field are furnished by the keen advertising managers of the great railroad systems of the country. What American old enough to know the difference between black and white has not heard of the "Empire State Express?" A great train, to be sure, but not a bit bet-ter nor a bit faster than other trains in the country that are not nearly so well known. Why is it so familiar? Ask the shrewd advertising manager of the New York Central. He is responsible. The story of Kate Shelley is as familiar in America as Robinson Crusoe or Old Mother Hubbard, and the "Kate Shelley Bridge" is even better known than Mount Washington, the source of the Mississippi, or the name of the man Stanley rescued in Africa many years ago. The shrewd advertising man of the Chicago & Northwestern has secured more azines, street cars, dead walls and free advertising from that Kate cold cash would have secured. The shield of the Union Pacific is as familiar in this country as the pictured face of Lincoln or Washington, and the words "Burlingington, and the words "B ington, and the words "Burlington Route" are much more familiar to the average man and woman than the Lord's Prayer or the Ten Commandments. Why is Ten Commandments. Why is this? And the answer to the question is, "The Advertising Man."

All this has not been accomplished by trading transportation for advertising space — not by thousands of dollars a year. In fact, the advertising that has been secured by trading transportation, as in the case of the "country edi-tor" who gave up about $200 worth of space and used about $50 worth of transportation, is the smallest part of the whole.

It is only within the last fifteen years that scientific advertising has been the rule with the great trunk line roads. Time was when the railroad assigned a comparatively cheap man to the advertising department and gave him dimes where the advertising man now gets dollars. Then the advertising man wrote an ad for one class of travellers and used it to catch all classes. What he did not know about advertising would stall a freight engine. And when railroads began to advertise in earnest it was found that the first thing to do was to unlearn all that had been "learned" by the men in charge of that department. In the old days, when a clerk in the passenger department became too old to copy letters or add up a col-umn of figures he was put in charge of the advertising. In this day and age the shrewdest, most alert, the suave, the debonair, genial, shrewd young man is seized upon and trained into the work.

The amount of money that a great railroad system spends in advertising every year is some-thing wonderful to contemplate. It costs money to get out the millions of folders, maps, stories, lithographs and other advertising that must be gotten out if the railroad expects to keep before the public.

THERE is no branch of the merchant's THERE is no branch of the merchant's work where the temptation to slight is greater than in advertising. Too often the execution of the contract for space seems to exhaust the energy of both the advertiser and the publisher. The latter is more anxious to secure the business than to see that the adwriting is carried out in a manner to make it of the greatest possible value. The meris carried out in a manner to make it of the greatest possible value. The mer-chant fails to appreciate the fact that the beginning of the advertisement's work means the beginning of a sys-tematic co-operation on his part to make it profitable. The details of advertising can never be neglected with impunity. The matters to be treated from week to The matters to be treated from week to week must be carefully selected, using only that which is most likely to interest. Do not be afraid of saying too little; but that little should have most careful thought. The merchant never thinks of letting other branches of his business run themselves. He sees to it that every duty is thoroughly done at that every duty is thoroughly done at the proper time. The rule must be extended to the advertising department. ### NOTES.

THE Boston Journal issues a neat little book of rates.

"CALIFORNIA Tours" is a fine booklet gotten out by the Burlington Route.

Montgomery Ward & Company, Chicago, issue a well arranged price list of groceries.

TIFFANY & COMPANY send out a neat desk calendar, printed in two colors upon parchment.

VERNON BROTHERS & COMPANY show samples of their Egyptian cover papers in a neat brochure.

OF all the newspapers published in the world, 68 per cent are printed in the English language.

MILLER & FROWERT, advertising specialists, Philadelphia, send out a folder that is rather lacking in argument.

THE Kansas City Journal has just purchased a fine lot and will begin the erection of an office building in the spring.

THE Dick Matchless Mailer is advertised by a small booklet which describes its mechanism and advantages clearly and convincingly.

GEORGE E. FAIRHEAD, advertising manager for A. Hamburger & Sons, has accepted a position with the Curtis-Newhall Advertising Company, of Los Angeles, Cal.

THE publisher of a paper called the Saint Louis Humorist, has, without much doubt, the funniest business methods practiced by any American, naturalized or otherwise.

WILL PHILLIP HOOPER'S third annual dinner to the clothiers who are subscribers to his advertising service will take place at the Waldorf-Astoria the last week in February.

MR. H. DE LISSER, United States agent for Holbrook's Worcestershire Sauce, is offering in the daily papers $1 to children who send him the best advertising verse for the sauce.

"METAL Lore" is a small booklet from E. W. Blatchford & Company, Chicago, setting forth the merits of their linotype metal and furnaces. It is well written and attractively printed.

THERE are ways of advertising churches that should be successful. In Chicago one minister has announced that chromos will be distributed to the congregation at the end of the services.

The volume of Christmas and holiday goods advertising was greater in New York City than it ever has been in previous years, and it is claimed that more money was spent this Christmas than in the past.

Men's Wear, a house organ published by the Waldo-Fairchild Company, 621 Broadway, New York, devotes its January issue to the banquet of the New York Clothiers' Association, lately held at the Savoy.

THE Dime Savings and Banking Company, Cleveland, O., issues a booklet that is attractive from the standpoint of text, but which is rather too "freaky" in its typographical make-up to be easily read. o L

F. A. ENSIGN, formerly with the Remington Agency, has recently acquired a partnership in the newspaper advertising agency of W. S. Hill & Company, Pittsburg, Pa., with offices in the Standard Building.

THE Associated Merchants' Trading Company, 685 Broadway, New York, sends out an artistic catalogue of gentlemen's furnishings. The matter is well arranged and the halftones of ties are especially excellent.

W. P. Mills, formerly with the art bureau of the advertising department of the Curtis Publishing Company, Philadelphia, is now in charge of the advertising department of the College Chemical Company, Philadelphia.

STREET & SMITH'S News Trade Bulletin is a monthly periodical in which are printed photographs of prize window displays of the firm's publications, hints upon store management and other matter pertinent to newsdealers.

THE Evening Leader, Richmond and Manchester, Va., issued an 82-page "twentieth century edition" on November 26. It contained "write-ups" of the business men and business interests of its section, and was altogether a large penny's worth.

The Shoe and Leather Reporter, which was sold about a year ago to Mr. Root, of the Dry Goods Economist, has been bought back by some of the old employees of the paper, and it will hereafter be published in Boston instead of New York.

THE Union Cash Stores, Ltd., of Dumare, Pa., send their first issue of a store bulletin, the Union Cash Store News, published gratuitously for their patrons. The sheet is excellently arranged typographically, but cheap paper and bad ink spoil the whole appearance.

THE American Blower Company, Detroit, Mich., sends out a catalogue of its heating and ventilating machinery. The book is good from the standpoint of printing and illustrations, and the matter, albeit a bit technical, is doubtless the precise sort needed by the trade.

P. A. Mandarch, president of the Ohio Institute of Pharmacy, of Columbus, is the author of a bill which will be introduced by one of the members of the Franklin County delegation. The bill provides for doing away with the practice of distributing drugs in the form of samples.

The Shirt, Waist and Laundry Workers' International Union, Troy, N. Y., is advertising its label direct to the retailers by means of a booklet. This volume is a most ineffective piece of literature, containing poor cuts and poorer doggerel, but the idea is good, and ought to bring results if it were properly presented.

MR. Hooper, who has been connected with the Rogers-Peet advertising for many years, has severed his connection with the house, and now his cuts can only be obtained from him direct. Leading clothiers in different parts of the United States are using the advertisements and cuts and carrying out the plans made for them by Mr. Hooper.

A NEAT booklet contains circulation figures and other data concerning "Johnson's List," comprising Herald and News, and Green Mountain State, Randolph, Vt.; Bethel Courier, Bethel, Vt.; Rochester Herald, Rochester, Vt.; White River Herald, South Royalton Vt., and Chelsea Herald, Chelsea, Vt. They are managed by L. B. Johnson, Randolph, Vt.

"Great Canals of the World" is the title of a study prepared by the Treasury Bureau of Statistics for publication in the forthcoming volume of the "Monthly Summary of Commerce and Finance." It shows the commerce, cost and dimensions of the great canals of the world, especially those connecting great bodies of water and which may be properly termed ship canals.

Farm Machinery, St. Louis, Mo., celebrates its fifteenth anniversary with a special number swelled by live reading matter and ads. One feature is particularly interesting—"Men of Today and their Homes." Portraits of prominent makers of farm implements are printed in conjunction with photos of their residences, and the quality of human interest given the combination recommends it to publishers in other lines.

THE Meriden Britannia Company, Meriden, Conn., prints a specimen booklet of its ads now running in the magazines and sends it to dealers with the admonition that "with this immense amount of publicity to appear throughout this and the next year, you will be materially benefited by having a good assortment of these goods to show to possible customers." Plates are also furnished free to dealers who will undertake to have them printed upon stock befitting their quality.

The Des Moines Daily News sprang a surprise on its readers last Sunday morning, delivering to its entire city and mail circulation of over 32,000 a handsome Sunday morning edition, illustrated with numerous halftones and teeming with interesting reading matter. The paper did not contain a line of advertising, this policy being adopted wing to the desire of the News publishers to keep the plan of issuing a Sunday edition secret until the paper came out. As the daily and Sunday morning News will not have separate subscription lists, this new Iowa Sunday paper will have over 30,000 paid circulation from the start.

THE Herald and the Spectator, of Hamilton, Ont., recently took their circulation troubles into the courts. In September of last year the Spectator published an assertion that its circulation was fifty per cent greater than that of the Herald, and the latter paper believing that it had been damaged about five thousand dollars, brought an action for that amount. Figures of the Spectator's circulation, got by the process of "dragging the president and several officers of the defendant before a special examiner," were submitted when the case came to trial on January 8 last. Pressmen, counter records and other evidences were submitted, and after the trial jury had had lunch it came back and granted the Spectator's application for a non-suit.

As a result of the new order recently issued by the Postoffice Department removing many of the restrictions placed on private mailing cards several business firms of the borough are adopting new and more elaborate cards for their individual use. Business firms have for individual use. Business firms have for many years been using these private cards, but the restrictions have been such that they differed very little from the regulation card. Under the new regulation the cards take rank with the Government postal card and will undoubtedly, to a large extent, supersede it. The former regulation classed the cards "Private Mailing Cards," which name as well as the act of Congress creating them had to be printed on the card. Their use was limited and no writing except the name across the face writing except the name across the face was permitted. Now the cards can be used by any individual or firm with the same freedom as the Government card within certain specified limitations. The cards can be used for written messages or for advertising purposes. Adver-tisements on both sides in any color inks are allowed so long as sufficient space is left on the front for plainly space is left on the transfer of the card is all that is necessary to send the card to any part of the United States or to any of our island possessions. It is this latitude given to the use of the card for advertising purposes which has espe-cially recommended its use to many of the large firms of the city. The firms are given the opportunity to work out original designs of really artistic merit which serve a need long felt by business houses for making announcements. The limitations in the new regulations are that the card must not exceed the weight of the Government card nor exceed 3 9-16 by 5 9-16 inches in size and be not under 2 15-16 by 4 5-8 inches in size. The words "Postal Card" must be printed across the face of the card. The order provides that when cards are prepared by printers they should bear in the upper right hand corner of the face an oblong containing the words "Place postage stamp here," and across "Place postage stamp here," and across the bottom the words, "This side for the address."

DEBATE ON CHURCH ADVERTIS-ING.

A debate was held by the Lowell, Mass., High Street Lyceum the other night on church advertising. The question for debate was: "Resolved, that a large attendance at the evening services of a church resulting from newspaper advertising is not an indication of genuine prosperity in the church," and it brought out a very general interest.

Mrs. C. W. Huntington appeared for the affirmative, that is, that the large attendance due to advertising is not an indication of prosperity. She thought that the people who came through the agency of such advertising would not be of the kind necessary to build up the church. They would come from a wrong motive—mere curiosity—and wrong motive—mere curiosity—and would not be earnestly seeking moral and spiritual profit. Such visitors would be transitory and not profitable contributors. Advertising would cheapen the church and its pastor, putting the service on a level with the theater, and making foot-lights and a curtain proper accessories. It would give the public a false conception of the utility of the church.

Hon. George A. Marden, ex-State Hon. George A. Marden, ex-State Treasurer, and himself proprietor of three newspapers, appeared for the negative side of the debate. He point-ed out that the affirmative misconstrued the question, assuming that all church advertising must be sensational. He would not attempt to defend that sort of advertising, but maintained that it was quite proper to make full announcement of the subject of the sermon and the music. In order to make converts a pastor must have hearers, and if these can be brought in by newspaper advertising, it must be a good thing. Dr. C. W. Huntington, contra, elaborated upon the sensational idea, main-taining that no advertising would popmainularize a Sunday evening service which was not sensational, and that consequently the presence of a large congregation in response to advertising must be a poor indication of prosperity. Deacon Joshua Clark spoke strongly in favor of advertising, holding that it in favor of advertising, holding that it was a great desideratum to get people to come in, and that the sort of spiritual food served when they were once inside depended upon the pastor. He did not believe in advertising "chaff." The Lyceum finally voted upon the merits of the question, and decided that church advertising was a good thing. There was a large attendance on this occasion.

It seems that there is some opportunity for the work of the Little School-master in Advertising in the Spindle master in Advertising in the Spinish that City. If some of those who think that advertising a church and church services is undignified would study its teachings, they might come to a different conclusion. The trouble is that religious work and church work is all ingious work and children work is an interest too infrequently carried out upon business principles. If some of the hard and fast rules and up-to-date methods that hold in business life were carried. out in the administration of the busi-ness and executive conduct of churches and other religious organizations, there would be fewer bankrupt churches and more self-supporting ones. The missionary and other institutions that carry out their work systematically and in a business-like manner are the ones that business-like manner are the ones that are most prosperous. And to advertise is certainly a business-like proceeding. All church advertising is not sensational. There is, of course, some that is. No church advertising, however, need be sensational. And yet one of the most successful religious organizations in the world, and one of the most prosperous, from a spiritual point of view, is one of the most bizarre and sensational in its mode of work and its publicity methods—I mean the Salvasensational in its mode of work and its publicity methods—I mean the Salvation Army. The idea should be the same as that of the most successful department stores—to get the people in, and then tempt them with the wares; in this case with the sermon and music, which child the sermon and music, which child the sermon and music, which child the sermon and music, which child the sermon and music, which child the sermon and music, which child the sermon and music, which child the sermon are server to the server and the server are server. which should so impress and strike home as to implant the desire to come again. As Deacon Clark says, the sort of spiritual food served when the people are once inside depends upon the pastor. But he should not misrepresent that which he is to give his auditors, any more than the department store that desires to retain its custom will misrepresent the goods it has upon its

"AVERAGE" AND "PROGRES-

Please do not make the mistake of thinking that by the average farmer I mean the progressive one. The propressive farmer is away above the average. In a good year the average farmer of the United States raises 26 bushels of corn, 20 bushels of oats and 9 bushels of wheat to each acre. The best farmers raise four times as much corn, three times as much wheat. I shall go further than this and say that the average farmer does not take any agricultural paper of any kind. My authority for this is ex-Governor Hoard, of Wisconsin, who said recently, in a talk he gave to the lowa dairymen, that out of 100 dairymen but fifteen took a farm paper. He found these were the most successful ones among the 100.—

GOOD PLAN.

The Farmers' Tribune, of Des Moines, Iowa, has collected from the assessors' books for the 2,000 townships in Iowa the name of every farmer in Iowa who owns twenty head or over of cattle or hogs, and proposes to send them a sample copy and subscription offer every month for four months. Surely such persistent work on such a valuable list of names will, bring results—Agricultural Advertising. sults .- Agricultural Advertising.

to our arguments for the Ellis Papers. Leading advertising experts acknowledge frankly that mail order advertising is THE advertising of to-day and shows better and surer results than any other kind of publicity.

This is true because it reaches a class of people you cannot reach in any other way and because this class now has plenty of money to spend and is sending it to the cities in response to mail order advertising.

There are literally millions of money to be made by reaching the rural districts all over America through the mail order papers.

Ours are unquestionably the leading mail order papers. Our five papers have a total circulation of over 2,000,000 absolutely guaranteed.

This means that we reach 2,000,000 families or 10,000,000 people every month in the year.

Why not let us carry your story to them? The Ellis Papers are:
